Making EUROPE Move!

ABOUT US

The European Movement (EM) is an all-party political and cultural international organisation: a think-tank, information and pressure group. It is known as the main and most recognised platform of pro-European, non-governmental organisations. Its headquarters are in Brussels.

The European Movement aims to influence the reform process of the EU and to gain citizens' support for it in line with its principles: "To contribute to the establishment of a united and democratic Europe, adhering to federal principles and founded on a respect for fundamental rights, the values of liberty and solidarity, and citizens' participation."

The political and strategic guidelines of the European Movement are drawn up by its Federal Council, which represents its National Councils and Member Organisations. The Federal Council appoints the President, the Secretary General, the Steering Committee (28 members) and an Executive Committee (8 members).

CONNECTING EUROPEAN CITIZENS

Hundreds of associations, political parties and individuals are represented through the European Movement's 44 National Councils and 23 international Member Organisations across Europe.

The European Movement is unique in that it covers almost all of Europe, i.e. the EU member states, the candidate countries as well as non-candidate countries.

Bringing together representatives of many important European associations, political parties, civil society organisations, employers and Trade Unions strengthens the political impact of the European Movement.

The European Movement's National Councils and Member Organisations help to influence European public opinion and national governments from a pro-European perspective. They organise nationwide activities such as public debates, exhibitions, TV and radio programmes and training courses with a view to increasing awareness of the EU on the national level.

The cornerstone of this exercise for 2008 is the organisation of the Congress of Europe in The Hague on 23 & 24 May celebrating the 60th Anniversary of the Congress of Europe of 1948.

EUROPEAN MOVEMENT TRANSNATIONAL PROJECTS

Annually: 9th of May – Europe Day

Since 2002, the European Movement has coordinated Europe Day celebrations, organising hundreds of events to promote the European project in an ever-increasing number of participating countries across Europe (25 in 2007).

2007-2008 / Debates on Energy & environment

These debates began in April 2007, with the aim of promoting dialogue between stakeholders of the world of politics, industry and civil society on energy and environmental topics of much concern to the European public. High level partnerships and guests have been involved, and several participants regularly attend the debates.

2006 - / EU Communication Policy

The EMI supports the EU communication policies. Recently it has coordinated the celebrated pan-European information and consultation campaign "Speak up Europe" and took part at the celebrations of the Treaty of Rome 50th anniversary with a dedicated project titled "EU with YOU". Based on a strong on-line presence and enriched by hundreds of events across the 27 EU Member States, these efforts aimed at facilitating the debates concerning the current work of the EU and its future challenges.

CREATING A MULTIPLIER EFFECT

Representatives of political, business, social and cultural life from 44 countries work actively inside the European Movement. Its pan-European structure gives its members the unique opportunity to exchange views and draft political statements in a forward thinking, pro-European, politically-balanced and qualified context.

The international secretariat of the European Movement (EMI) permanently acts to relay information to its grass-root members – thereby exerting a unique multiplier effect.

Finally, the European Movement co-ordinates a number of training, information and communication projects. These projects are implemented by the National Councils of the European Movement in cooperation with its Member Organisations.

2005 - / Social Europe

Following the successful project Pariteia, which aimed at promoting a European citizenship based on sound gender equality principles, the EMI has increased its engagement in this area. It is currently participating in a project focused on the development of family friendly policies within SMEs.

2003- / Enlargement

The EMI is strongly engaged in the EU enlargement campaigns. The EMI is currently supporting the Implementation of the EC Communication Strategy for Enlargement in Croatia.

What has Europe ever done for us?

This entertaining and thought-provoking animation serves as a teaser to the debates on Europe. While explaining in simple words what Europe has done for the citizens, it also offers an open space for discussions about Europe's future role. The animation has been translated in 23 languages and it is available online on the correspondent webportals, localised in 28 countries.

ACTIVITIES

The Working Groups (WGs) are permanent discussion bodies who draft policy statements and where relevant activities are organised. The WGs are as follows:

Constitutional Affairs

This WG deals with constitutional affairs, issues of democracy and transparency in the EU and the role of European political parties.

EU in the World

This WG debates the role of the EU in development, peace-building, climate change, human rights, the social dimension of globalisation and a possible reform of the United Nations system.

EU Neighbourhood policy and EuroMed relations

The EM focuses on the relation with the EU's Eastern and Southern neighbours. It looks into questions related to the role of the civil society in these areas, a stronger cooperation and common political and practical engagements. Since 2003, a special focus was given to the South-North dialogue in the Mediterranean area and since 2008 to the Black Sea.

Enlargement

This WG deals with questions related to EU enlargement and its future challenges. Its members also address practical issues related to individual countries applying for membership.

Commission for Gender Equality (CEG)

The CEG is a permanent body of the EM aiming to bring to attention problems related to the equality between men and women in each programme of the EMI. The CEG is also member of the European Women's Lobby.

The EMI Training Academy

The EMI Training Academy provides courses/seminars on the EU policy-making and public affairs, explaining the EU, its institutions, its legal system and procedures, its policies and its role as a global actor. It also offers trainings in project management and communication.
